Research profile

Researcher in orofacial pain with a primary focus on epidemiological and clinical studies of painful temporomandibular disorder (p-TMD). In September 2026, she defended her PhD dissertation, "Painful temporomandibular disorders and headache in young adulthood: early-life factors and multidimensional clinical characterization," at Aarhus University, integrating prospective cohort analyses from the Danish National Birth Cohort (DNBC) with clinical phenotyping to examine early-life and lifestyle-related determinants of p-TMD in young adulthood. As a Postdoctoral Researcher, she continues this work, building on the data and collaborations established within the DNBC.

Positions

Research methods and analytical skills

- Prospective cohort studies

- Epidemiological studies of p-TMD and headache
- Clinical phenotyping and questionnaire-based pain data
- Statistical analysis (STATA, R, and SPSS)
- Epigenetic and integrative data analysis (conceptual + ongoing)
- Experimental animal models of orofacial pain

Teaching experience

- Teaching in Orofacial Pain and Jaw Function, preclinical dental curriculum (oral physiology) (2022–2026)
Department of Dentistry and Oral Health, Aarhus University
Approx. 150+ hours of teaching during PhD period
- Lecturer in Oral Medicine, undergraduate dental students
Kashan University of Medical Sciences (2017–2018)
- Lecturer, workshops on research principles and oral medicine
Kerman University of Medical Sciences (2014–2017)

International conferences

- European Academy of Orofacial Pain and Dysfunction (EAOPD) Conference, Athens, Greece, 18–19 September 2026 – Poster presentation
- International Association for the Study of Pain (IASP) World Congress, 2024 – Oral and poster presentations
- European Academy of Orofacial Pain and Dysfunction (EAOPD), 2023 – Poster presentation

Education

- PhD, Aarhus University, Denmark (2022 – 2026)
Dissertation: "Painful temporomandibular disorders and headache in young adulthood: early-life factors and multidimensional clinical characterization" — defended 4 September 2026
- MSc in Oral Medicine (2014 – 2017)
Kerman University of Medical Sciences, Iran
Thesis: "Effects of chronic facial pain on the tendency to use morphine and cannabinoids in conditioned place preference in male rats"
- Doctor of Dental Surgery (DDS) (2006 – 2012)
Kerman University of Medical Sciences, Iran
